Prisoners Of War, Relatives May File Claims

Veterans who formerly were prisoners of war in Japan and dependents of those who died as prisoners, are again being solicited by a Washington, D. C. organization to file claims for compensation on a fee basis, J. G. Caldwell, director, Veterans Service Center, Torrance, said today.

Caldwell pointed out that if and when it becomes possible to file such claims they will be handled by the Federal government through official channels, and it will not be necessary for veterans or their dependents to pay anyone a fee for this service.

The organization making the current solicitation asks a retainer of $10, plus 15 or 20 percent of any recoveries obtained from the Japanese government. A similar campaign was conducted by this organization last year.

No arrangements have yet been made for processing of claims for maltreatment of prisoners by the Japanese, but any machinery which is established for this purpose undoubtedly will provide for filing through official government channels, Caldwell said.

Free service in presenting all types of claims and assistance in obtaining the various veterans' benefits are available at the Veterans Service Center located at 1339 Post avenue, Torrance. The facilities of this office will, of course, be available for filing of prisoner of war claims once the required procedure is established.

New ways
the telephone can reach remote areas

Radio telephone allows your voice to "ride the beam" into Death Valley, across the channel to Catalina Island . . . to Mount Hood . . . between Marysville and Redding. With transmitters like this one we can span sea or desert by radio and your voice sounds exactly as though it were coming over a telephone wire.

Power-line carrier is another new device which makes telephone communications possible in remote, sparsely settled districts. Your voice "hitch-hikes" along existing power lines on radio waves that are tuned to follow the wires. Several power-line systems are now used on the Pacific Coast . . . and they're as safe and effective to use as any.

New Working Dollars . . . Millions of new dollars needed to build buildings and buy new equipment to meet the public demand for more telephones and more service do not come from telephone bills. New dollars come from people who are willing to put their savings into the business. We must earn enough to attract these new working dollars.
